

Far too valuable to throw out:

edding presents its return system for empty and disused markers and writing instruments

Environmental protection at work has many aspects. In the edding return box you can easily collect empty and disused markers and writing instruments for recycling or professional disposal.

Environmental issues and sustainability are playing a significant role within our company. Please support saving resources and dispose of your empty markers and writing instruments in this return box.

Actually you can find the box at the following place:

(please add the place where your employees will find the box easily)

Thanks for your support!
