edding wins the German Sustainability Award 2025

(Ahrensburg, November 2024) Great delight at edding: The edding Group is the winner of the German Sustainability Award for Companies (DNP) in the office supplies category.

The family-owned company received the prestigious DNP, a very special award for its profit-for strategy, with which the company is placing sustainability at the centre of all its actions on the way to a regenerative way of doing business. The jury recognised the company's strategy as a leading example in the industry and the award confirms that ecological and social responsibility are essential for future economic success.

“We firmly believe that the role of business is changing - only those that truly take responsibility for our planet and society will have a future. And only a transformed economy can help secure the future for our planet. That is why we are striving for a regenerative way of doing business. With our profit-for strategy, we will prove that ecological and social commitment is not detrimental to economic success, but rather a prerequisite for it,” emphasises Per Ledermann, CEO of the edding Group.
